

June 8.

In the senate, yesterday, the motion for the expulsion of William Blount, one of the members of that body, came under discussion, and Messrs. Dallas and Ingersoll, attended as council in behalf of Mr. Blount. The business was, however, shortened by the determination of the house of representatives to impeach him of high crimes and misdemeanors. About twelve o'clock, the members of the house of representatives having just entered the chamber, and the council having been some time engaged in urging a postponement of the question to a future day, having dwelt some time upon the effect which a vote of expulsion would probably have upon the trial, on an impeachment which was understood was likely to take place, a message was announced from the house of representatives, when Mr. Sitgreaves went up to the bar of the house, and thus addressed the president to the following effect:

"Mr. President, I am commanded by the house of representatives, in their name, and in the name of the people of the United States, at the bar of your house, to impeach William Blount, a member of the senate, and to inform you that they will exhibit, in due time, articles of impeachment against him, and make good the same. I am also commanded to demand that the said William Blount be sequestered from his seat in the senate, and that order be taken for his appearance to answer the charges which they shall bring against him."

Mr. Sitgreaves having withdrawn, a resolution was prepared by Mr. Sedgwick, and proposed to the house to the following effect:

"A communication having been received from the house of representatives by Samuel Sitgreaves, one of their members, that they have determined to impeach William Blount, &c. therefore resolved,

"That the said William Blount be, and he is hereby sequestered from his seat in the senate of the United States;

"That the said William Blount be taken into the custody of the messenger of this house, and by him safely kept, until he shall give surety for his appearance to the charges to be exhibited against him by the house of representatives, himself in the sum of 20,000 dollars, and two sureties in 15,000 dollars each."

This resolution occasioned considerable debate. Mr. Marshall spoke at considerable length against the right of the house of representatives to impeach a senator, as he denied that they could be called officers of the United States. He quoted several parts of the constitution in support of his opinion. He was replied to by Mr. Sedgwick who said that this was not the proper time for considering that question, that point would be fully discussed at the time of trial. Mr. Cocke, from Tennessee spoke also against the right of the house of representatives thus to interfere with their body. Mr. Reed and Mr. Ross spoke in favour of agreeing to the resolution. Mr. Tazewell wished the question to be postponed for at least one day, as it involved in it a precedent for all future time. Mr. Bingham was willing to agree to the latter part of the resolution, but the former he trusted would be postponed till tomorrow, as it contained a principle of great importance. Mr. Marshall again spoke as to the constitutional right of displacing a member from his seat in this stage of the business, as it was clear by the constitution, a person could only be removed from office, after conviction. Several other members spoke for and against the motion. At length the question was taken on Mr. Tazewell's motion for a postponement, and negatived 14 to 11.

It was then taken on Mr. Bingham's to postpone the former part of the resolution, relative to the member's sequestration his seat, and carried, there being 15 votes in favour of it. The question was then taken on the latter part, and carried, there being 17 votes in favour of it.

Mr. Blount immediately entered into bond for 20,000 dollars, and Pierce Butler, Esq; and Thomas Blount, Esq; each of them in bonds of 15,000 dollars as his sureties.

Mr. Jefferson has obtained leave of absence from the senate for the remainder of the session, and Mr. Bradford is chosen president, pro tem.

DR. FENDALL

HAVING arrived in Annapolis, on his way to Baltimore, takes the liberty to intimate to the citizens, that he means to exercise his skill, in the line of his profession, for a week or two here, and may be spoke with at Mr. Wharfe's.

The doctor's knowledge of the natural history of the human teeth, their adjacent parts, and the disorders to which they are incident, acquired by assiduous attention and unremitting study, and the experience of an extensive course and successful series of practice, for upwards of twenty-two years, will he hopes, entitle him to the confidence of any, and all of those who wish to employ him. He fondly flatters himself he has it happily in his power to appeal, without fear, to such as have been his patients, in the states of Maryland, Virginia, &c. for that degree of reputation his conduct, as a dentist, may have merited, and given him just claim to. The doctor hopes, at least, he is considered as entitled to the highest grade amongst those of his profession in this country.

The doctor begs leave to offer to the public his Columbian antiscorbutic dentifrice, infinitely superior, he thinks, both in elegance and efficacy, to any thing hitherto used for the teeth and gums; it renders the breath sweet and agreeable, and is a powerful antiscorbutic, free from any corrosive preparation whatever. This invaluable preparation, which he avers to be truly efficacious, not only remedies the disorders of the teeth and gums, but likewise, if possible, for preventing them, no family (and especially where there are children) should be without, is still sold, and only by the doctor at this time, for the moderate price of 7/6 a pot, with directions, and to prevent counterfeit and fraud, each pot is covered with a paper, on which is a circular flowery margin, and around the same is written (on the inside) "Dr. Fendall's Columbian Dentifrice," with the doctor's seal, B. F. impressed on wax, in the middle of the circle.
